Berger Montague

Berger Montague has a flair for handling high-stakes plaintiff-side cases, regularly winning high-value settlements for clients following antitrust law violations. The department helped achieve the largest-known settlement of an antitrust class action in history in the In re Payment Card Interchange Fee and Merchant Discount Antitrust Litigation, with the class settlement fund reaching approximately $5.62bn. Particularly effective at handling cases in the financial services and life sciences sectors, the department is jointly led by firm chairman Eric Cramer, commodities, securities and environment expert Merrill Davidoff, class action heavyweight Laddie Montague, and David Sorensen, who frequently represents direct purchasers of prescription drugs. In addition, Cramer focuses on representing workers claiming that anti-competitive practices have suppressed their pay. Another name to note is Michael Dell'Angelo, who has expertise in price-fixing matters, as well as other anti-competitive wrongdoing affecting financial instruments. All named attorneys are based in Philadelphia.

Practice head(s): Eric Cramer; Merrill Davidoff; Laddie Montague; David Sorensen

Work highlights

- Represented the Rule 23(b)(3) Class Plaintiffs in a class action brought against Visa, Mastercard, and several large banks which have played substantial roles in operating the Visa and Mastercard networks alleging that certain Visa and Mastercard rules artificially inflated interchange fees.
- Served as co-lead counsel for the class of direct purchasers of the Alzheimer's drug Namenda, achieving a settlement of $750m, the largest settlement in Hatch-Waxman antitrust litigation with a single defendant in history.

- Served as co-trial counsel to a certified class of direct purchasers of electrolytic and film capacitors in the case In re Capacitors Antitrust Litigation, reaching settlements with eight defendants totaling $232m.

Cohen Milstein Sellers & Toll PLLC

'One of the top firms in the field on the plaintiffs' side, respected by plaintiffs and defense firms alike', Cohen Milstein Sellers & Toll PLLC specializes in original proprietary cases, leveraging a team of licensed private investigators to investigate corporate wrongdoing. 'Highly skilled in dealing with economic issues that arise in antitrust cases', the wider antitrust group excels in high-stakes antitrust class actions, most notably securities, pay-for-delay, no-poaching and wage suppression disputes. Although particularly prominent in the pharmaceutical sector—an area of focus for New York-based Sharon Robertson—the team is also well equipped to handle disputes arising from the financial services, hi-tech, electronics and agriculture sectors. The group, which is led by Washington DC-based duo Benjamin Brown and Brent Johnson, also includes price-fixing and monopolization suit expert Richard Koffman; Daniel Small, a 'real team player'; and the 'smart, seasoned, and highly capable strategist and oral advocate' Kit Pierson, all of whom are based in the DC office.

Practice head(s): Benjamin Brown; Brent Johnson

Other key lawyers:

Richard Koffman; Daniel Small; Kit Pierson; Sharon Robertson; Daniel Silverman

Testimonials

'Excellent at integrating economic analysis into the legal arguments in a way that makes the ultimate "story" that's told persuasive and multi-faceted.'

'Dan Small focuses on the big picture, but then works to make sure that all of the individual elements fit into, and support, that big picture. Careful to consider arguments from all sides in order to best structure counter-arguments. Dan is also a real team player – a critical role in multi-firm litigations.'

'They are one of the top firms in the field on the plaintiffs' side, respected by plaintiffs and defense firms alike.'

Work highlights

- Acted for UFCW & Employers Benefit Trust, on behalf of a certified class of California self-funded payors, in an antitrust class action alleging that Sutter Health used anti-competitive contract terms and contracting practices with the major health insurance companies in California to insulate itself from competition and to increase prices.
- Served as co-lead counsel for Arnell Prato, DDS, PLLC and all other plaintiffs in In re Dental Supplies Antitrust Litigation.
- Represented a certified class of third-party payors in litigation which alleged that Allergan agreed to a settlement with the third-party payor class plaintiffs with respect to Loestrin 24 FE, a top-selling birth control drug, for a total $62.5m, rather than face trial over antitrust claims that the company colluded with would-be generic manufacturers, Watson and Lupin Pharmaceuticals, to delay lower-priced generic versions of Loestrin.

Hausfeld LLP

Cited as the 'pre-eminent antitrust litigation practice on the claimant side in Europe', Hausfeld LLP also remains a go-to for plaintiff antitrust actions in the US, with offices and dedicated antitrust litigators dotted across the country. Presiding over the practice group are Bonny Sweeney in San Francisco and Scott Martin in New York, the latter of whom is singled out for his multifaceted practice, which includes 'complex federal multi-district actions, class actions involving direct and indirect purchasers, parens patriae cases'. Stationed in the firm's DC office is talismanic founding chairman Michael Hausfeld, one of most sought-after names in plaintiff-side actions in the US, and an expert in cases involving monopolization, tie-ins, exclusive dealing and price-fixing. In San Francisco, Megan Jones stands out for her expertise in antitrust cartels, regularly procuring settlements for clients. Other names to note are the law firm and

- Serving as co-lead counsel (as well as on the plaintiff's steering committee) in In re Blue Cross Antitrust Litigation, alleging that over 30 Blue Cross/Blue Shield entities across the country have entered into agreements not to compete with each other for customers of health insurance.

- Serves as co-lead counsel in a class-action lawsuit against the four leading manufacturers of disposable contact lenses—Johnson & Johnson Vision Care, Alcon, Bausch & Lomb, and CooperVision—and the dominant distributor, ABB Optical Group, alleging that the defendants joined horizontal and vertical conspiracies to adopt, implement, and enforce resale price maintenance policies, euphemistically referred to as unilateral pricing policies, on certain disposable contact lenses.
- Serves as co-lead counsel for a proposed class of plaintiffs, who allege that Celgene engaged in a multi-faceted scheme to maintain its monopoly and interfere with competitors' efforts to enter the market with generic versions of Thalomid and Revlimid.

Susman Godfrey LLP

Susman Godfrey LLP's litigation generalists possess a deep well of experience representing plaintiff-side companies and individuals alike in high-profile matters. Here, antitrust-focused team members frequently prosecute claims for monopolization, price-fixing, market allocation and other unlawful conspiracies, oftentimes for Fortune 500 companies. In light of its non-hierarchical structure, the group has lawyers on an equal footing across the country. In the Houston office, co-managing partner Neal Manne, founding partner Stephen Susman, Barry Barnett and James Southwick are all recognized for their enviable plaintiff-side practices; in Los Angeles, 'IP star' Kalpana Srinivasan and 'outstanding strategist' Marc Seltzer are routinely involved in complex multi-district actions; while on the East Coast, New York-based Bill Carmody has a vibrant bet-the-company trial practice in which he serves as lead counsel to some of the country's biggest companies. After a brief period back in private practice, Randy Wilson was appointed to Houston's 14th Court of Appeals bench in January 2021.
